ANNOUNCEMENTS

TODAY'S PROGRAM: 2018 CITIZEN OF THE YEAR: Barb Keeling (unionbkeeling@aol.com)

LAST THURSDAY'S SOCIAL WITH KENTON: Greg Palmer reporting — Lauren and I were able to attend the concert and had a wonderful time. The Kenton County club had a dozen members there both serving food and manning an information table. There were probably 500 folks in the audience and Matt Grimes from the Kenton County club was able to address the crowd and tell them a bit about Rotary. They raised over $900 on food sales.

INTERACT TRIP
BY PAT MOYNAHAN

"Amazing" is the term Interact Club students most often use to describe their experiences during a service trip to the Dominican Republic.

Noah David, who went this July for a second time, was amazed at the response of kids he played with briefly a year ago. They were excited to see him.

"They remembered me ... they remembered my name," he marveled. "That's one of the things I will take with me through life."

Members of the 35-member group who went to Santo Domingo this year shared their feelings on the impact of the trip on them at a meeting of the Rotary Club of Florence on July 30 at the Cincinnati Airport Hilton. They also presented a video montage highlighting their service activities around the city.

The group included students from four Interact clubs in Kentucky - Florence, Pikeville, Morgan County and Nicholas County - sponsored by their local Rotary clubs. During the trip, they painted a basketball court, put up new nets and spruced up a playground. They also cleaned up and repaired a grassy baseball field.

In addition, the students visited a pre-school to donate supplies and read to the children and spent a day entertaining residents of a special needs facility. Pikeville students wore costumes from a "Beauty and the Beast" production to give life to the stories they read and their interaction with the children.

"It was amazing," said Barbara Rahn, who leads the Florence Interact Club and organizes the trip each year. The multi-club trip this July marked the sixth year the Northern Kentucky club has ventured to the Dominican Republic and the experiences "have brought tears to my eyes on many occasions," she said.

The Interact students worked out of the Highland Sports and Events Complex (Tierra Alta). The facility is a ministry of The Rawlings Foundation, a Boone County philanthropy that sponsors youth camps, church camps and Christian activities around the world.

The Rotary Club of Florence presented a $500 donation to The Rawlings Foundation at the meeting. State Sen. John Schickel, R-Union, who accompanied the students on the trip this year, presented Kentucky Colonel citations to Rahn and Barbara Keeling.

Alex King, a junior at the University of Louisville, returned for a fourth year and produced the video. Words are inadequate to explain why he keeps going back, he said.

"It's impossible to put into words the impact it's had on me," he noted. "... the things I've learned and the people I've met."
