“Service above self.” By Sophia Pile

This motto has been extremely valuable because I have always made it a goal of mine to serve the community, whether that be helping friends with schoolwork, providing a safe space at the local swim club as a lifeguard, or even volunteering at Mary Rose Mission or Rose Garden Home Mission. As I have learned the impact of this saying, I am determined to live by it during the next phase of my life.

One way I will be serving above myself is by participating in Greek life. I find philanthropy extremely valuable, so I am determined to become involved with a sorority that has a mission that I find important. I also plan on involving myself by acquiring a job as a lifeguard at UK’s aquatic center. I find lifeguarding valuable because I am taught important skills like CPR and first aid to better serve the community. I feel satisfied knowing I have skills that could help a potentially life-threatening situation. As a current lifeguard for the Oakbrook Swim Club, I know my job relieves parents because they feel their kid(s) are in good hands and safe.

The most impactful way that “service above self” will affect my future relates to the field I am studying. I am studying psychology on a pre-medical track in the hopes of attending medical school to become a psychiatrist. This relates to Rotary’s motto because I will be spending countless hours over the next eight years studying to prepare for my future profession. I am choosing the well-being of others over my own leisure time. I will be serving the community by helping others overcome mental illness and bettering their lives. Overall, I find “Service above self” as relating to several aspects of my past, my present, and involved in a variety of ways in my future.
