Northern Kentucky First Responders Provided AEDs

Thanks to Project Heart ReStart and Rotary Club of Florence

Written By: Will Baker, Rotary Club of Florence

First responders from 38 Northern Kentucky law enforcement agencies now have automated external defibrillators (AEDs) in their vehicles, thanks to a combined effort of the Rotary Clubs of Cincinnati, Covington, Falmouth, Florence, and Kenton County.

Nearly 170 AEDs were handed out during the November meeting of the Northern Kentucky Police Association, which marked the end of phase three of Project Heart ReStart. Through the project's first two phases, nearly $500,000 was raised, which has helped equip nearly 250 first responder vehicles in Hamilton County and the surrounding Greater Cincinnati area with AEDs. "The members of the Cincinnati Rotary Club had a vision. They saw it through. And then they passed it on to the Rotary Clubs of Northern Kentucky," said Michael Constantino of the Rotary Club of Kenton County. "The vision was for Rotary across the US to continue this journey to making as many cities and counties Heart Ready as possible."

Ian Addington had just taken over as president of the Rotary Club of Florence when Project Heart ReStart was presented to him. "I was looking for a project we could do with our district grand funds, and I felt this was perfect. It was also an important project to me because there is a Rotarian in our club, that, without her, our work would be very diminished. And she was saved with the use of an AED." Addington and club members then worked to convene Northern Kentucky leadership and get them on board with the project.

The original Project Heart ReStart began in 2006 with The Christ Hospital Health Network training more than 6,500 people in CPR, which expanded into providing AEDs to first responders.

With the delivery of the AEDs to Northern Kentucky first responders, Boone, Kenton, Campbell, and Pendleton counties are the first Heart Ready counties in Kentucky.

Featured Article: Boone County Public Library - Serving Our Growing Community

Last week, Carrie Herrmann, Executive Director of Boone County Public Library, hosted our club at the new Walton Branch Library, sharing insights into the library system's evolution and impact. With 25 years of service to Boone County and celebrating her 10th year as Director, Herrmann provided a comprehensive overview of the library's services and future plans.

Modern Facilities, Sustainable Design

The new Walton Branch showcases innovative design and sustainability:

- Geothermal heating and cooling system
- Solar panels providing 30% of energy needs
- Daylight-sensing lighting systems
- Demonstration kitchen for community programs
- Boone Innovation Lab featuring fiber arts and textile equipment

Community-Focused Services

The library system offers:

- Five full-service locations serving 140,000+ residents
- 24/7 online access to digital resources
- Innovative programs like "1000 Books Before Kindergarten"
- Partnership with Dolly Parton's Imagination Library (80% enrollment)
- Specialized spaces including maker spaces and art galleries

Digital Resources and Technology

Modern library services include:

- E-books and audiobooks through Libby
- Artist Works for music instruction
- Creative Bug for craft classes
- Mango language learning (113 languages)
- Research databases and streaming services

Special Programs and Collections

The library maintains:

- Archives and History Center (internationally recognized)
- Florence Cemetery African American burial ground research
- Teacher and homeschool resources
- Adult education and technology training
- Passport and notary services

Looking Forward

Future plans include:

- Modernization of the Florence Branch
- Expanded community programming
- Enhanced digital services
- Continued focus on early childhood education

The Boone County Public Library demonstrates how modern libraries serve as community hubs, offering not just books but a wide range of services and resources for lifelong learning. Special thanks to Carrie Herrmann and her team for hosting our club and sharing their vision for the future of library services in our community.
